Foster Care

Fostering is one of the most rewarding experiences one can have. We couldn't save as many lives as we do without the dedication of our foster parents.

Each year we take in lots of animals who are not quite ready to be in the shelter environment due to their age, health, or well being.

This year we have placed over 100 animals in foster care. As we take in more and more animals throughout the year, we are always looking for fosters to open their home to an animal in need.

As a foster, one is responsible for providing a temporary, caring environment in the privacy of your home for a sick, injured, new-born, or otherwise needful animal. The goal is to return the animal to the shelter as a healthy, socialized, adoptable companion.

What animals need fostering?

All kinds of animals!

The Quincy Humane Society is always looking for more fosters! There is no set amount of times you need to foster, it's strictly on your availability. We provide all of the necessary supplies for each foster opportunity and fosters provide the loving environment.

Shelter Updates

Back in 2014, we shared the success story of one of our favorite furry friends, Cora. She was adopted in March of 2014 after being here at Quincy Humane Society for quite some time. While her adoption day was a bittersweet day, Cora's life following was nothing short of amazing!

Once Cora made her way to her forever home, her owner stayed in contact with the staff at Quincy Humane Society to keep us up to date on the wonderful life that Cora now had! Cora settled in and was comfortable in her new bed not too long after sniffing out her new home. She was given unconditional love and she in return loved her family unconditionally.

In May of 2016, Cora was diagnosed with diabetes and was receiving insulin injections daily. Not long after her diagnosis, she suffered from a spinal injury. She lost strength in legs and lost the ability to go up or down the stairs. While she was on restricted movement in the house, as long as she was next to her loyal companion, the pain didn't seem to bother her.

We recently received word of Cora's passing and we remember our memories of her and all of our furry friends from Quincy Humane Society who have crossed over the Rainbow Bridge.

A Special Thank You To...

Niemann Foods: Thank for thinking of the animals at Quincy Humane Society at your work picnic and collecting $150 for a gift card to Pet Supplies Plus for us to help our

The Quincy Humane Society Fosters:

Thank you for opening up your homes and welcoming in countless foster animals so far this year. For 2016 we have accumulated a little over 2,000 foster hours...and counting!

Quincy High School Beta Club:

Thank you for your donations throughout the school year. We have enjoyed having you come out to volunteer and work with our animals. They love the love, attentions, toys and treats that you bring them!

Kenzie Harscher: She celebrated her 6th birthday and thought of the animals at Quincy Humane Society! In lieu of birthday gifts, she asked friends and family to collect toys for the cats and dogs, treats, and other supplies that we use around the shelter!
